

Nitro Complex™ Product Specifications

Arginine and ornithine are amino acids that serve as precursors to fuel HGH (Human Growth Hormone) production in the pituitary and increase nitric oxide levels in the blood. Such increases have been associated with enhanced athletic recovery times, increased muscle mass, enhanced immunity and improved sexual performance.

Since nitric oxide dilates blood vessels, it may help lower blood pressure in some individuals, and is often credited with considerable gains in stamina with anaerobic workouts. Increased blood flow helps to better oxygenate tissues, as well as to enhance the cellular exchange of nutrients and wastes.

People who are known carriers of Herpes viruses which can cause cold sores or shingles should take arginine with caution, as it may provoke a flareup in sensitive individuals. This product contains arginine alpha ketoglutarate, a form of arginine which is not commonly associated with herpes flareups, but caution is nonetheless warranted.

SUGGESTED USE: As a dietary supplement, take three (3) tablets twice daily with water on an empty stomach.
